DASHBOARD INCLUDES

- 2019 Federal Media & Marketing Study Results – Canned reports and customizable data runs from our popular syndicated study. The study combines actual media usage of mid- to senior-level federal decision-makers with their demographics, job function and purchasing habits. Survey responses from approximately 3,000 decision-makers highlight their media usage spanning print, broadcast, social, mobile and online.
 - Media Usage - 50+ publications, 100+ websites and mobile sites; 15+ social sites; differences inside the Beltway vs. outside
 - Time Spent Accessing Content - How much time do government employees spend accessing content online, watching TV, listening to the radio and reading e-newsletters?
 - Confidence in News Reported by Media Sources – How confident is your market segment in the news reported by media source? If advertising, should you consider whether it will affect how they view you?
- Additional Federal Market Studies – Results from Market Connections biennial studies including Federal Content Marketing Review, Federal Government Contractor and regular PulsePolls™ taken of the public-sector
- Updated Data – (As available) Subscribers will be provided with updated data refreshes, as they become available
